

There is so much violence and sex on television today that one can hardly turn on anything without becoming almost ill. From homosexuals being forced upon us as normal, to commercials suggesting sex will sell anything. Thank God for the history channel and old movies. Where has the common sense gone too. Sports promote unruly mob behavior to black men having white women naked in the locker room on major football games. It is out of hand. Yes I can turn it off, and do, but it is the getting through the 990 channels to choose from that you see everything.
